PRE-AIR WAR COLLEGE EMPLOYMENT THROUGH 2018

Air War College.

Visiting Professor and Project Director. July 2011-February 2013 and July 2014-2018. The Center for Writing Excellence, Air War College, Maxwell Air Force Base. Montgomery, AL.

- Developed, designed, and implemented the Center of Writing Excellence at the Air War College, a graduate writing center. Created infrastructure and process for writing consultation and supervised additional consultants—in this role worked closely with senior military officers and civilian officials from more than 40 nations. Topics of briefs and consultations included: writing process, research process, identifying higher and lower order concerns, revision strategies, strategic communication, reading strategies, approaches for specific assignments, revising for multiple audiences, revising for publication, translation of written text into effective oral communication, and the importance of communication in leadership. Writing consultation contact hours were well over 3,200 between 2011 and 2018. Survey results were resoundingly positive, in the 95-100% range for overall approval.

Auburn University at Montgomery.

Honors Associate Professor. October 2013-2018. University Honors Program and Department of English and Philosophy. Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM). Montgomery, AL.

- Collaborated with University Honors Program directors to develop core curriculum for a revised series of program requirements. Created and taught over fifteen unique courses in the UHP sequence, including courses with student domestic and international travel. Taught English courses for core curriculum, for English literature majors and writing minors, literature and writing pedagogy for graduate programs.

Director of Composition. August 2008-Januray 2018. Department of English & Philosophy, AUM. Montgomery, AL.

- Redesigned and implemented core curriculum for writing program at Auburn University at Montgomery. Moved curriculum to 21st century with adherence to multiple standards and outcomes for print and digital composition: WPA First-Year Writing Outcomes; Framework for Success in Post-Secondary Writing; Information Literacy Standards (Association of College and Research Libraries). Developed and implemented 40+ hour per year training and mentoring program for all composition teachers, including writing across the curriculum pedagogy. Participated in Phase 1 of the national Citation Project from 2009-2011. Also developed and implemented oral communication/speaking component for writing courses at Auburn University at Montgomery—created curriculum for oral presentations and designed assessment rubrics for all oral work in writing classes from basic courses through advanced writing. Implementation reached over 3,000 in the first calendar year (2016-17). Curriculum changes have had an impact on over 20,000 students at AUM since 2008. Served as interim director of writing across the curriculum in 2008-2009.

Founder and Director of the Master of Teaching Writing and Certificate Program. October 2010-June 2016. Department of English & Philosophy, AUM. Montgomery, AL.

- Designed and developed Master's in Teaching Writing degree program implemented at Auburn University at Montgomery in 2015, one of just a few degrees in the US focused on teaching writing that also includes basic writing pedagogy. Enrollment and graduate goals were being met through 2017-2018 for the Alabama Council of Higher Education requirements.

Honors Assistant Professor. October 2012-October 2013. University Honors Program. AUM. Montgomery, AL.

Assistant Professor. August 2008-October 2012. Department of English & Philosophy, AUM. Montgomery, AL.

Additional Previous Academic Appointments.

Quality Enhancement Plan Consultant (Writing Across the Curriculum). July 2010-May 2011. Wallace Community College Selma. Selma, AL.

- Named consultant in Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Quality Enhancement Plan. Successfully designed and implemented training for all faculty at WCCS. Survey results were extremely positive: 99% strongly agreed that the program was useful and meaningful.

Post-Doctoral Lecturer. August 2007-August 2008. Department of English, Texas Christian University (TCU). Fort Worth, TX.

Editorial Director and Senior Writer. June 2006-April 2008. Schoolwide, Inc. Bohemia, NY.

- Executive Editor. February 2005-June 2006. Voyager Expanded Learning, Inc. Dallas, TX.
- Senior Literacy Associate. June 2000-January 2005. National Center on Education and the Economy/ America's Choice, Inc. Fort Worth, TX/Washington, DC.
- Co-Founder. April 1997-July 2006. Write to Succeed, Inc. (nonprofit corporation). Fort Worth, TX. Positions held: Vice President, Community Outreach (1997-02); President (2002-03); President of Board (2003-04); Advisory Board Member (2004-06).
- Co-founded Write to Succeed, a non-profit company whose initial goal was to connect local elementary and middle school students with college students and teachers in writing relationships. The semester-long collaboration, Writing Partners, culminated in a visit to the college campus and a celebration of writing. Writing Partners was partially funded by grants from Texas Christian University, public schools, local Starbucks franchises, and individuals. Additional programs included Reading Partners as well as art and writing workshops in women's shelters and for local seniors. The Writing Partners program was ultimately implemented at five universities in five states and reached over 27,000 students and is still active in several universities as a part of their core writing programs.
- Writing Teacher, Sixth Grade. August 1999-June 2000. All Saints' Episcopal School. Fort Worth, TX.
